ICELAND

The 2022 Summer Program in Iceland aims to engage students in a field-based exploration of the interrelationships between a nation's economy and its environment. Iceland, a world leader in innovative environmental policies and energy production, provides a uniquely suitable setting for such an endeavor.

While abroad, students will be lodged at Skálanes, a 1,250-hectare nature preserve and heritage site on Iceland's easternmost coast. This field experience will focus on student-centered, active learning experiences and will engage students in a number of field activities. The trip concludes with a stay in Reykjavik — Iceland's capital city — where students will have the opportunity to visit a variety of museums and take part in any number of Icelandic events and activities.

Through this field experience and related individual group projects students will gain a detailed knowledge of the social and environmental factors that continue to influence the development of Icelandic society, and will learn how to apply this knowledge to critically assess nature-society in other contexts. Students will gain valuable experience in research project design and implementation, as well as improve their writing skills through a number of writing workshops.

PARIS

The 2022 Summer Program in Paris, France, is designed to give students the opportunity to learn, live, and study in the City of Light.

CHESTER & LIVERPOOL

The 2022 Summer Program in Poulton, UK, offers students an unprecedented opportunity to experience an intensive field school study in archaeology and English history. Located just five miles from the medieval city of Chester, Poulton is home to a multi-period excavation site dating back to the Mesolithic period. Prior excavations have uncovered a chapel and graveyard, which has yielded over 850 skeletal remains thus far, and which suggests another 800 burials yet to be unearthed. There is evidence, too, of high-status Roman occupation, Bronze Age farming, Neolithic activity and Mesolithic use of the site for seasonal hunting. It is suggested that Poulton has been home to nearly 10,000 years of continuous human activity.

While abroad, students will participate in the continuing excavation, spending 10 days on-site, working alongside archaeologists and volunteers. Students will be expected to learn archaeological methodology, gain hands-on experience in an active and significant excavation, and learn how to process artifacts and human skeletal remains. While not on-site, students will visit other ruins of historic and prehistoric significance, process artifacts and skeletal remains in the Liverpool John Moores University bio-archaeology lab, and explore the city of Chester.

The 2022 Summer Program in Spain grants students the opportunity to learn and study in some of the country's most distinguished communities.

The great university city of Salamanca is Spain's finest showcase of Renaissance and Plateresque architecture. Other major sights are the two cathedrals and the 13th-century university, one of Europe's oldest and most distinguished.

Madrid, Spain's capital city, is a city of breathtaking boulevards, beautifully manicured historic parks, and grandiose plazas. It is renowned for its repositories of European art lining the "Paseo del Arte"—a one kilometer stretch that is home to three of the best museums in the world—and its stunning architecture, including the portico-lined Plaza Mayor and the nearby baroque Royal Palace and Armory.

The 2022 Summer

The sprawling vineyards and olive groves provide a backdrop for the Il Sasso Language School, where students may immerse themselves in Italian atop a hill surrounded by the breathtaking Tuscan scenery.

Montepulciano's old town center is full of churches and "palazzi." The setting for the films The Twilight Saga: New Moon and Medici: Masters of Florence, Montepulciano is surrounded by Etruscan and Roman sites. In July, Montepulciano hosts Cantiere Internazionale d'Arte, an annual festival of musicians, actors, singers, and conductors and is the ideal place for learning and practicing Italian.
