Faculty Senate

Constitution

I. Functions

The Faculty Senate is the representative body of the faculty, deriving its authority from the faculty and the Collective Bargaining Agreement. Its primary function is to serve as the agency by which the faculty can actively participate in the governance and policy-making decisions of the University because of the principle of shared authority. The Faculty Senate has as its goal a University community that promotes to the fullest the free transmission of knowledge and pursuit of truth. To this end, the members of the Faculty Senate are responsible for representing their constituent units and are entitled to propose new policies and procedures and revisions to existing policies and procedures of the University. The Faculty Senate shall consider such proposals and take appropriate action.

There shall be no minimum size for a voting unit.

Any department may opt to terminate its membership in a previously agreed-upon voting unit by notifying the other department(s) in the unit. Changes in such affiliations shall become effective at the beginning of the following academic year.

The Faculty Senate Secretary shall certify the members of voting units at the beginning of each academic year.
