

The Center for Academic Success and Accessibility Services

Graduate Intern: Center for Academic Success and Accessibility Services Graduate Intern

Overview: The Center for Academic Success and Accessibility Services (CASAS) is engaged in innovative approaches to academic support, academic intervention, and accessibility support in collaboration with departments in both Academic Affairs and Student Affairs. The Graduate Intern serves as a CASAS generalist and supports academic support, academic success coaching, academic intervention initiatives, and accessibility appointments and programming. The Graduate Intern applies student development theory, learning theory, and effective coaching techniques in working with students. The Graduate Intern reports to the Director of the Center for Academic Success and Accessibility Services.

General Responsibilities (both years)

- Provide direct academic and developmental support services to students.
- Manage a caseload of students each semester and assess their progress.
- Initiate campaigns to focus on high-risk populations.
- Maintain records of student participation.
- Support academic intervention initiatives
- Provide specific holistic coaching to students receiving accommodations
- Support and provide data and assessment for initiatives
- Support programming in Center for Academic Success and Accessibility Services.

Year 1

Additional Responsibilities:

- Collaborate with other intern for accessibility programming; specifically MAP program
- Create training opportunities for academic success coaches throughout the year and support associate director of academic intervention and coaching with supervision of academic success coaches
- Begin to research program initiatives of interest to develop and implement in year 2 within CASAS
- Participate in and assist with development of departmental special projects that align with the mission and philosophy of CASAS.

Year 2

Additional Responsibilities:

- Responsible for full supervision and training of MAP Program and MAP leaders.
- Develop training and resources for College Reading and Learning Association (CRLA) IMTPC level 2 and 3 certifications.

- Implement program within CASAS that was developed in year 1.

Description:

This graduate intern position is a two-year position which consists of a titrated approach of increasing responsibility and skill development throughout the two-year position. During the first year the focus is on development, understanding the role, and skill development enhancing gaps and continued progression in responsibilities. The primary responsibility within the first year of the program is to focus on learning the needed skills, organizing and balancing responsibilities within the graduate intern role, understanding the responsibilities of the various components of CASAS, and working to manage a caseload of individual students and being able to adapt and adjust to what those individual student needs are. Year one is working to lay the foundation of this experience allowing the graduate intern to begin to apply classroom knowledge and material to the position and responsibilities by setting goals to achieve within their first and second years. During the second year the focus for the graduate intern is on further application of knowledge through an enhancement of experiential avenues and increased responsibility such as full supervision of student workers, development and implementation of programs, and oversight over certain programmatic aspects within CASAS. Within year two the graduate intern will be asked to utilize knowledge, research, and assessment of programs within the to evaluate and enhance current offerings.

Qualifications:

- Effective written and verbal communication skills.
- Strong organizational and time management skills.
- Ability to demonstrate initiative, work autonomously, and proactively seek guidance when necessary.
- Ability to develop and maintain positive relationships with students, faculty, and staff.
- Knowledge of academic support strategies and techniques.
- A strong commitment to student development in higher education and enthusiasm about growing as a professional.
- Admitted as a matriculated graduate student in the CSU system in Education, Psychology, Sociology, Counseling, or other related field.

Time Commitment:

- 12-month position
- Work approximately 35 hours per week
- Hours are flexible and special projects may require working evenings and/or weekends

Compensation:

- Paid through stipend as graduate student

- 21 class credits compensated

Refer Questions to:

Katie De Oliveira
Director of the Academic Success Center
Office: Buley Library Room 303
Email: Deoliveirak1@southernct.edu
Phone: 203-392-5186