

ONLINE TEACHING ACADEMY: SURVIVING TO THRIVING

Moving from emergency remote
teaching to online learning

APRIL 17 & 24, 2020
9AM - 5PM

Day 1: A series of conversations (come prepared to share!)

Day 2: Resources and ideas

Register at <https://inside.southernct.edu/online-learning/teachingacademy>

Sponsored by Office of Faculty Development, a grant from the Office of Faculty Development and the Office of Online Learning

Day 1

Friday, April 17, 2020

Schedule

- 9:00 – 9:50 Student Voices & Perspectives – Student stories & experiences as read by students – What works and what doesn't from the student view
- 10:00 – 10:50 Student engagement & faculty social presence
- 11:00 – 11:50 Faculty Conversations – What is working and what isn't in online education
- Noon – 1:00 Lunch & Chat
- 1:10 – 2:00 Teaching asynchronously
- 2:10 – 3:00 Teaching synchronously using Teams
- 3:40 - 4:30 Online Assessment & Assignments

The first 50 participants who register for Day 1 will receive the eBook version of The Online Teaching Survival Guide: Simple and Practical Pedagogical Tips 2nd Edition by Judith V. Boettcher & Rita-Marie Conrad.

Day 2

Friday, April 24, 2020

A series of trainings based on results of recent survey conducted by the Office of Online Learning and, in part, on what is learned through faculty dialogue during Day 1.

Tentative List of Trainings for Day 2

- Open Educational Resources
- Using Technology to Increase Student Access
- Letting the Curriculum Guide the Choice of Technology
- Designing an Online Course Using Best Practices
- Increasing Your Social Presence in the Online Classroom
- Assessment: The Big Picture - Quality, Honesty & Results
- Designing Quality Student-to-Student Interactions in the Online Classroom
- Developing Communities of Practice for Peer Support

The first 50 participants who register for Day 2 will receive the eBook version of Online Teaching at Its Best: Merging Instructional Design with Teaching and Learning Research 1st Edition by Linda B. Nilson & Ludwika A. Goodson.